A Letter from Paul — October 2026

A Letter From Paul

Election Day is just around the corner, and much is at stake! As members of a progressive church, we are called to live out our faith not just within these walls, but in every sphere of our public and private lives. I want to remind our neighbors, friends, and colleagues of the vital importance of exercising our right to vote. We can make a difference in this nation and the world!

How does our faith influence our vote? When we step into the voting booth, we have the profound opportunity to answer that question. Can we bend the arc of justice toward diversity, equity, and inclusion? Absolutely!

Our congregation's mission statement is "Sharing God's Unconditional Love, Justice, and Extravagant Welcome." Bringing those sacred ideals into the voting booth means casting ballots that protect the vulnerable, honor the dignity of every human being, and foster a more just and equitable society for all. Voting is an active expression of our shared ministry and our commitment to the common good.

To ensure your voice is heard, please keep these key dates and deadlines for Maricopa County in mind:

- October 5th: The last day to register to vote.
- October 23rd: The last day to request a ballot by mail.
- October 27th: The last day to mail back your ballot.
- Tuesday, November 3rd: The day to vote in person.

If you need a ride to your polling site, please call our church office and we will help you.

Let us approach this election with a deep sense of hope, responsibility, and love. May our votes reflect our prayer for a more just, inclusive, and compassionate world.

Shalom, Paul

Executive Board
at The Church of the Palms, UCC

As the seasons turn and the first hints of fall settle over our community, we are filled with joy to welcome our winter friends back into town. Your return brings familiar warmth, renewed energy, and the blessing of shared fellowship. Whether you've been away for a few months or many years, please know that your presence enriches our life together in ways that are deeply felt.

Autumn ushers in a meaningful stretch of the year for our church family. As we move toward the holidays, we look forward to gathering around the table for our Thanksgiving Dinner — a cherished time to share gratitude, good food, and the companionship that makes this congregation feel like home to so many in the community.

This season also calls us to honor and remember. On Veterans Day, we pause to recognize the courage, sacrifice, and service of the veterans within our community and beyond. During All Saints Day, we hold close the names and memories of those we have said goodbye to this past year, trusting in the promise of God's eternal care. We will also be remembering our transgender brothers and sisters whose lives were cut short by violence. We join our Christian brothers and sisters around the globe in celebrating World Communion Sunday, a powerful reminder that we are part of a vast and diverse family of faith. In a world often divided, this day invites us to experience unity at Christ's table.

Finally, as midterm elections approach, we encourage everyone to take time to review what is on the ballot. Understanding the issues and measures before you vote is an important part of faithful citizenship. Please consult trusted, official sources to ensure you have accurate and up-to-date information.

To all our winter friends — welcome home. We are grateful for you, and we look forward to sharing a season filled with worship, remembrance, celebration, and community.

- Jessica Hermann Ministry Council Chair

As we approach the midterm elections, I encourage every member of our church family to take part in the civic process. Voting is one meaningful way we can contribute to our communities.

Let us approach this election season with prayer, wisdom, and respect for one another. Take time to learn about the candidates and issues, reflect on the values that guide your decisions, and make your voice heard by casting your ballot.

We as a country are a diverse people with a wide range of political perspectives. At The Church Of The Palms each of us is equally valued, welcomed, and loved here. We are neighbors, friends, and brothers and sisters in Christ, even when we support different ideas. No single political view defines our community or decides anyone's belonging. I encourage each of us to have conversations marked by grace, to be thoughtful as we make our decisions, and to take part in the voting process with a desire to best serve our communities.

Register to vote if you have not already done so, learn about the candidates and issues, make a plan for when and how you will vote, and participate respectfully by listening to others, and treating every Neighbor with dignity.

Blessings,

Victoria McWilliams Executive Board Chair

October Worship Themes

October 4: Pastor Paul preaches. World Communion Sunday! We will have bread from around the world and flags representing different countries across the globe. Pastor Paul will be preaching. Read Exodus 20:1–4, 7–9, 12–20. Do we tell the truth or do we break the 9th commandment?

October 11: Pastor Paul preaches. Read Philippians 4:4-9. When dust storms in life hit us, God wipes the dust from our eyes so that we can see clearly.

October 18: Pastor Mark preaches. Matthew 22: 15-22. Jesus is not falling for the trap. He defies being boxed in.

October 25: Pastor Paul preaches. How would you define Holiness? Do you know it when you see it? Read Leviticus 19:1-2, 15-18. Pastor Paul will be preaching.

Veterans Recognition Invitation

The Church of the Palms is preparing a special Veterans Recognition, and we would be honored to include the names and stories of those members who have served. If you are a veteran, please share your information using the QR code to an online form so we may recognize you with gratitude. A paper form can be found on the bulletin board by King Hall.

Please provide:

- Name of the Veteran
- Branch of Service
- Any additional information about your service you would like us to share (years served, locations, roles, honors, or a brief reflection)

Your contributions help us celebrate the courage, dedication, and sacrifice of those who have served our country. Thank you for helping us honor them.

On the first Sunday of every month, TCOTP packs 50 lunches for the Surprise Resource Center. These lunches are then given to individuals and families who need a little extra help throughout the month. We will pack sacks on October 4, after worship.

Donations needed are: Chicken or Tuna salad lunch kits (with crackers included), Fruit cups, Granola or protein bars, individual bags of chips, individually wrapped packages of sweet treats (cookies, Rice Krispies Bars, etc.) Bottled water. If you can help supply any of the above, please let Sandy Weis (815-541-9810) know. Your help with this much-needed project is greatly appreciated!

Deep Listening Masterclass: Learning the Art of Sacred Presence
Saturdays October 17, 24, and November 7 (3 sessions) 10:00 a.m.
(continental breakfast provided 1st session)

Presenter: Georgia Feiste Meet in King Hall

Are you desiring deeper connections, warmer conversations, and a safer space to practice listening without judgment? In a noisy world filled with rushed and quick advice, how often do we feel truly understood? Most of us default to "listening with our engines running," quickly building a snappy response, crafting a solution, or planning our next move while someone else is speaking.

The Deep Listening Masterclass is a three-part journey into the art of unhurried presence. Together, we'll explore how to build an "inner room" of calm, to let go of the urge to fix or give unsolicited advice, and listen beneath surface noise to understand the deeper human longings we all share. Whether you are navigating family dynamics, supporting friends in tough times, or simply wanting to bring a quieter, warmer heart to your everyday interactions, this masterclass offers practical tools and plenty of room for laughter and grace along the way. Come as you are. No homework or perfection required!

Session 1: Preparing the Vessel: Clearing internal static, making room for silence, and catching our favorite "listening traps".

Session 2: Connecting & Translating Listening beneath the words to decode underlying feelings and core human needs.

Session 3: Bridging the Divide Staying grounded when friction or heat enters the room and learning the practice of the "sacred pause".

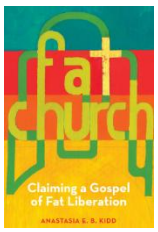
Book Study – Fat Church



Join us for a two - session book study on Fat Church, Claiming a Gospel of Fat Liberation, by United Church of Christ minister Anastasia E.B. Kidd. Sessions will be on Tuesdays, October 13 and 20th from 10:00 am to 11:30 am at The Church of the Palms.

Anti-fat bias—often called fatphobia or weight stigma—is a real, systemic form of discrimination that treats people differently just because of their body size. It's not just about rude comments or mean jokes; it's baked into our healthcare, our workplaces, our public spaces, and our everyday culture, and even the church.

In response, this book calls us to examine our own prejudice and work to tear down our beliefs and barriers, and demand that everyone gets to live comfortably in their body, no matter its size.

How Anti-Fat Bias Shows Up in Everyday Life

At its core, anti-fat bias comes from the unfair idea that you can judge someone's character, health, or self-discipline just by looking at them. It creates real-world obstacles for people every single day:

- At the Doctor's Office: Medical weight bias is a massive issue. Doctors often jump straight to suggesting weight loss instead of running standard tests, leading to missed diagnoses and delayed care.
- On the Job: Research shows that fat people—especially fat women—are less likely to be hired, make lower average wages, and get passed over for promotions compared to thinner colleagues.
- In Public Spaces: From tiny airplane seats and tight booth seating at restaurants to standard medical equipment like blood pressure cuffs, much of the physical world is built as if higher-weight bodies don't exist.
- In Pop Culture: For decades, movies and TV have treated fatness as a punchline, a villain trope, or a tragic cautionary tale, teaching people to feel ashamed of their bodies.

What Fat Liberation Actually Means

You've probably heard of "body positivity," which usually focuses on self-love and feeling good in your skin. While that's great, fat liberation goes much deeper. It's a civil rights movement that started back in the late 1960s alongside feminist, queer, and racial justice movements. Instead of asking individuals to just "love themselves," fat liberation demands that society fix the rules and systems that treat fat people unfairly.

Core Ideas Behind the Movement

- It's Political, Not Just Personal: The main goal isn't getting people to feel confident in a swimsuit; it's getting anti-discrimination laws passed, fixing healthcare systems, and making sure public spaces are accessible.
- It's Connected to Other Struggles: Anti-fat bias doesn't exist in a vacuum. It overlaps with race, gender, disability, and income level. Fat liberation acknowledges that body standards have historically been shaped by white, Western, and able-bodied norms, so fighting for one means fighting for all.
- No One Owes the World "Health": Society often argues that being healthy is a moral requirement. Fat liberation points out that health is complex, influenced by genetics and environment, and most importantly—you don't have to be healthy, thin, or attractive to deserve respect, safety, and basic rights.

When Love Doesn't Feel Like It's Enough: Living With the Diagnosis of Dementia in Your Family

Dementia touches thousands of families across the Northwest Valley, often bringing with it confusion, exhaustion, and a deep sense of uncertainty about how to best support a loved one. To help families navigate this challenging journey, the Care and Support Ministry of The Church of the Palms will host a free community workshop, "When Love Doesn't Feel Like It's Enough: Living with the Diagnosis of Dementia in Your Family," on Saturday, October 3, from 10 a.m. to noon.

The workshop will be led by Jack Register, a licensed clinical social worker, therapist, and founder of Catharsis Counseling Center in Phoenix. Register brings years of experience working with individuals and families affected by dementia, trauma, and major life transitions. He is currently completing his PhD through Yeshiva University in New York, with a focus on clinical practice and family systems. His work is known for blending compassion, clarity, and practical tools that caregivers can use immediately.

The morning will offer participants a grounded understanding of what dementia is, how it progresses, and how its symptoms affect daily life. Register will guide attendees through caregiving strategies that support both the person living with dementia and the caregiver themselves—recognizing that the emotional, physical, and spiritual toll on caregivers is often profound.

Topics will include communication approaches that reduce frustration, environmental adjustments that promote safety and calm, and ways to create routines that honor dignity while easing daily challenges. The workshop will also highlight the importance of caregiver self-care, offering insight into burnout, boundary-setting, and how to build a sustainable support network.

Organizers emphasize that while love is the foundation of caregiving, dementia often demands more than love alone can carry. Education, community, and practical tools can make an enormous difference in the lives of both caregivers and those they support.

The event is free and open to all community members—caregivers, family, friends, neighbors, and anyone who wants to better understand dementia and how to respond with compassion and confidence

LGBTQ+ MINISTRIES

Love In Action at Church of the Palms

At Church of the Palms, love isn't just a word we say on Sunday — it's how we live every day. 🏳️‍⚧️🌈😇

We show up. We speak up. We make room at the table for every story, every family, and every beautiful journey. We stand proudly and wholeheartedly with our LGBTQ+ family — today, tomorrow, and always. Because love has no asterisks and justice has no exceptions.

This is your spiritual home — a place to be fully affirmed, to celebrate weddings, anniversaries, and milestones with joy, to receive pastoral care that honors exactly who you are, and to find a community where you can breathe deep, heal, and truly belong.

Great News: The LGBTQ+ Committee Is Back Together!

After a peaceful summer break, our LGBTQ+ Committee has reconvened, and we are meeting again! We come back rested, inspired, and ready for a full fall of connection, advocacy, and celebration.

We would love to see you there. Whether you identify as LGBTQ+, love someone who does, or want to be an active ally, you have a place with us.

November at Our Church: A Sacred Time to Remember 💜

In November, we come together for one of our most meaningful traditions — honoring Transgender Day of Remembrance. In a world that can be harsh, we choose to be a place of remembrance, dignity, and love.

We pause to hold in our hearts our transgender siblings who have lost their lives to violence. We speak their names with love. We light candles for their memory. And we renew our promise to work for a world where every person is safe, cherished, and free to live as their authentic self.

We invite our entire church family to join us for these two special gatherings:

- Labyrinth Walk of Remembrance — Friday, November 20, 2026 at 9:00 AM — A gentle, meditative walk to reflect, pray, and hold space for one another.
- Reading of Names Service — Saturday, November 21, 2026 at 2:00 PM — A moving service where we honor each life by name, with music, prayer, and community support.

All are welcome. Come as you are.

Because at Church of the Palms, no one walks alone. We have your back, we have your heart. ❤️

Save The Dates:

- Phoenix Pride Festival & Parade — Sunday, Oct 11, 2026
- Labyrinth Walk — Nov 20, 2026, 9:00 AM at the Church
- Reading of Names — Nov 21, 2026, 2:00 PM at the Church

Join Us For Phoenix Pride — Oct 11th! 🏳️‍🌈

It's here! Join Church of the Palms as we celebrate the 45th Anniversary of Phoenix Pride!

We'll be connecting with other welcoming churches and community groups, and sharing the good news that love lives at Church of the Palms. Come walk with us — your presence is our best witness!

Parade kicks off at 10:00 AM on 3rd Street (E. Portland to Taylor St) and leads right to the festival at the Arizona Center (gates at 12:00 PM). Expect amazing floats, 150+ performers, 300+ vendors, food, family fun, and a whole lot of joy!

HUMANE BORDERS
FRONTERAS COMPASIVAS

This Land Is Your Land

We live in a "Border State". While we freely cross borders into California, Nevada, Utah, Colorado, and New Mexico, our 378-mile border with Sonora, Mexico is marked by steel walls, U.S. Military occupation, surveillance drones, and Border Patrol stations.

Asylum seekers continue to cross the border on foot every day. Men, women, and children die in our desert. They are typically lied to about the difficulty of the journey by "Coyotes". Of late, they often cross west of the city of Agua Prieta, Mexico into the Barry Goldwater bombing range. The bombs and missiles are secondary dangers compared to dying of thirst and exposure. Most of the bodies of men, women, and children are never found, but the number that are found has increased year over year.

Agua Prieta is the sister city of Douglas, Arizona, joined together by family generations but split by a political border. Many families reside in both. The Church of The Palms sponsors a Water Station out in the desert maintained by Humane Borders (humaneborders.org) of Tucson. Frontera de Cristo (fronteradecristo.org) is a Presbyterian border ministry located in both Agua Prieta and Douglas. Recently, there was a 5K race simultaneously on both sides of the border. The finish celebration was a huge party in Agua Prieta. Both Humane Borders and Frontera de Cristo offer opportunities to get involved and educated.

Resources on Parkinson's and Physician Lecture on October 8, in Sun City

Benevilla invites older adults, caregivers, family, and community members to Aging Well: Live Empowered, from 9 a.m. to noon on Thursday, October 8th at Radiant Church, 10701 W. Boswell Blvd., Sun City. Dr. Holly A. Shill, MD, will present "Where Are We in the Understanding of Parkinson's Disease" from 10–11 a.m. Dr. Shill will discuss risk factors associated with the development and progression of movement disorders and Parkinson's disease, etc. Dr. Shill is the director of the Muhammad Ali Parkinson Center and Movement Disorder Program at Barrow Neurological Institute in Phoenix.

The Aging Well: Live Empowered is bringing together over 40 trusted aging well organizations and resources in one convenient location. Attendees can talk directly with experts and learn about programs and services available. Attendees who pre-register and attend the event will also receive an entry into a drawing for a chance to win a $50 Fry's Gift Card. Call 623-584-4999.

Greetings! Here I am for another episode of "I'm baring my soul and being brutally honest". However, I have no idea if I'm relieved, dismayed or just plain confused.

I read an article recently that, based on the headline, sounded informative. In reality, I was even more confused and distressed when I was done. I felt like it could have headlined: "Just how much plastics ARE we ingesting?" and read: "dunno" Period.

The article states the following:

- Humans may take in 0.1-5 grams of microplastics weekly (that's a big difference)
- Microplastics are ingested through food, drink, inhalation, and even dermally (through our skin via our clothing, things we touch, etc.)
- Microplastics travel through our digestive, respiratory and circulatory systems.
- They are also found in chemical additives, heavy metals, pharmaceuticals, pesticides, and other pollutants in the environment.
- They have been linked to several human ailments such as endocrine disorders, reproductive and cardiovascular illnesses/diseases as well as obesity, diabetes, and cancer. (Through another source, I've learned microplastics likely contribute to Alzheimer's/dementia)
- Food-related microplastics are found in water, shellfish, fish, salt, beer (oh darn!), honey and sugar.
- The largest source of ingestion is water, both bottled and tap.

Basically, the article ends with statements that science doesn't have the appropriate resources yet to measure and determine accurately how much humans are ingesting or how much is actually considered dangerous. They just know it is. I found the article quite distressing and frustrating. I really thought, after all the hype, that science would have been on a more accurate path by now.

How are we, as the general public, supposed to lobby to eliminate plastic usage in our food containers, leftover containers, clothing, water bottles, drinking glasses, medicines and its bottles, pesticides, cleaning products, laundry detergents, etc. It's hard to imagine the difficulty one faces when one can't actually say HOW MUCH is actually dangerous, despite knowing it IS. I can see Congress now doing a "ya, got nuttin". It seems like we've learned so much yet know so little.

Essentially, the article says, "we do not know exactly how many microplastics humans are ingesting daily, and what levels the consequences occur." I'm distressed.

Thanksgiving at The Palms: A Tradition of Welcome

Once again, The Church of the Palms will open its doors to the community for a Thanksgiving dinner on Thursday, November 26, 2026. This annual gathering is rooted in three joyful commitments: offering an extravagant welcome, honoring the memory of Joyce and Roy Spaulding, and simply having fun together.

Last year, we lived out that extravagant welcome by serving 137 plates of food—a beautiful accomplishment made possible only through the generosity of volunteers who cooked, set up, served, and cleaned with such grace. Many of our guests could have prepared their own Thanksgiving meal, but our culture tells us this holiday is meant to be shared. For Sun City residents who live far from loved ones, the chance to sit at a table with others is a gift beyond measure. We've already had community members stop by the church in August asking to make reservations because they wanted to make sure there was a place at the table for them.

In past years, the church office has received heartfelt notes from attendees. One guest wrote that they felt welcomed "from the minute I was greeted in the parking lot to the moment I left with a take-out box for a friend." That is extravagant welcome in action.

And of course—there's the fun. As people headed out last year, more than a few said, "I can't believe how much fun I had." Hospitality has a way of bringing joy to everyone involved.

If you would like to help or learn more about this ministry, please connect with Wendy Whitlock and keep an eye out for our sign-up station in the narthex coming in mid-October.

Needles and Pins Craft Group

Needles and Pins Craft Group table will have a new addition soon—a way to welcome Fall.

Susie Lehman has been busy crocheting three delightful cornucopias, each overflowing with adorable miniature fruits and vegetables. They're charming, colorful, and just the right touch for your dining room table. Pick one up and let your Fall table blossom with handmade charm!

The Pins and Needles Craft Group donated $500 worth of needed products to Deep Within Rehab Center in Peoria, Arizona, a non-profit helping men transition from homelessness and addiction to productive lives. They don't receive any state or federal aid.

The donation provided 1,560 loads' worth of laundry detergent pods, 300 toothbrush and toothpaste sets, 120 disposable razors, and 144 deodorant sticks. Thank you to everyone who made this donation possible through buying items from our craft table. Pictured here are Pastor Mark, Bobbie Chapman, Director Cindy Humes, Albert, center's Laundry Man, and Assistant Director, Tricia Quezada.

Protected at the Polls: Voter intimidation is a federal crime. Yet harassment at the polls continues to threaten our right to vote. Here's what you need to know to show up prepared- for yourself and for your neighbors.

- No one can aggressively question you about your citizenship, criminal record, or qualifications to vote.
- It's illegal to display misleading signs about voter fraud or to spread false information about voter requirements.
- It's against the law for someone to falsely claim that they are an election official.
- If you make a mistake on your ballot, you may ask for a new one.
- In many states, you can give a sworn statement to the poll worker that you are qualified to vote and then cast your ballot.
- You can report intimidation to the Election Protection Hotline at 1-866-OUR-VOTE and to your local election officials on Election Day.

From the League of Women Voters

Attention Arizona Voters: Before you cast your ballot, get informed at VOTE411.org. The League of Women Voters trusted, nonpartisan Voters' Guide lets you see what's on your ballot, compare candidates' responses to important questions, learn about ballot measures, and find the election information you need to vote with confidence.

Christmas Already?

It's time to collect gifts for the Perryville Prison Mommy and Me Christmas Party! Trish Plum from A Place for Hannah organizes the party for the incarcerated women and their children.

Watching the children spend this special time with their mothers makes our volunteer effort all worthwhile. Ten of us will volunteer this year!

Provided is a list of gifts that we need to have donated by Sunday, October 25. Please put any donations in the box beneath this list in the hall outside the narthex.

In addition to this list, $25 gift cards are needed for teens from Walmart, Target, or Amazon. Party snacks may be needed closer to the date of the parties.

Questions? Please contact Nancy at nnonini19@gmail.com .

West Valley Community Center (formerly Dysart) TRUNK OR TREAT is on October 31, yes, Halloween Day. This year, they will also be hosting a costume contest and musical entertainment. More information will follow as the date gets closer, but please add it to your calendar. It was so much fun last year, and The Church of the Palms has participated for many years. You will want to bring bags of treat to pass out, decorations for the truck of your car, and a camp-type chair.
